
Through an awakening of the mind's higher aspects
That which obstructs the natural flow of inspiration
Shall wilt and fall away as though leaves from a tree:
For the awakening mind has an ability to redefine
Thoughts that influence one's worldly action.
By cultivating a positive mindset troubles of the Physical world gradually dissolve to the point of
No longer been perceivable to the awakened mind:
Any lingering thoughts of a negative nature are Transformed by the cultivation of inner stillness:
The extent to which thought is transmuted by
The individual, reflected in any number of Worldly acts: through selfless action one discovers
Certain qualities that enrich the overall experience
Of this journey, we commonly refer to as life.
